

FAITH WITHOUT BORDERS – DISASTER RESPONSE TEAM

Diane Richardson shares her talents as a master gardener to offer Elaine Faye hope that her landscape and garden would grow back in the spring. Elaine, a Munster flood victim, was deeply touched by the care and baked goods from St. John parishioners.

Karen Ditola hauls furnishings out of the basement.

Dave Leydet, FWB member from St. Michael Parish, joins Eric Dahl and Tony Popiela to break apart a pool table before removing it from Cheryl and Andy's home in Gary.

Jack Quinn assesses mold damage with homeowner, Amparo, East Chicago resident. Linda Burns and Joe Kovacs (below) measure cutline on paneling.

What do you get when you combine: a travel agent, physical therapist, industrial manufacturing manager, newspaper publisher, structural engineer, office bookkeeper, high school administrator, sales clerk, hospital volunteer, electrical technician, physician, retired carpenter, in-home working mother, auto-worker, along with several energetic high school teenagers and retirees?

Answer: Faith Without Borders inspiring, hard-working and highly spirited work teams on any given Sunday afternoon!

Come share your talents and unconditional love for our neighbors in need throughout Northwest Indiana.

Kathy Payonk and Alan Smith work on the team in Gary.

Sharon Majchrowicz and Alan Smith admire Laurie Rutkowki's power-washing technique as Gail Hartsough scrubs the bleach water on the walls.

Homeowners are living in mold infested homes until willing volunteers give their time and talents to help them.
